The Sushi Gone Wild team competes at Flugtag in Vancouver, British Columbia August 19, 2006. The first Flugtag which in German means 'flying day' took place in Austria in 1991. The flying machines must be human-powered with no stored or external energy sources. The machines must also be constructed completely by human muscle power and be no more than 30 feet wide and 450 pounds in weight, including the pilot.
